

OPEN ACCESS AND COPYRIGHT INFORMATION

Open access: The Heritage For Future - Scientific Journal supports an open science program. The journal enables open access for all publications. Everyone can view, download and forward articles, provided that the terms of the license are respected.

Copyright: The authors publish their papers transferring copyrights under the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 International (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0). Submission of a paper for publication by the author/authors is tantamount to acceptance of the provisions of the license and the following statement.

The author/authors of the submitted paper declare that:

1. is/are the authors of the submitted paper and have full personal and property rights to this paper;
2. the paper does not violate copyrights, trademark, patent or other intellectual property rights of third parties, and copyrights of the author/authors in terms of: recording, reproduction, electronic storage, making available in electronic form, sharing on the Internet, and introducing the circulation of duplicated copies of the paper throughout the world is not limited;
3. the paper has not been published so far and has not been submitted to the editorial office of another journal;
4. they grant a free license on the basis of the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 International (also known as CC BY-NC-ND 4.0), available at <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0> or any subsequent version of this license, published by the Creative Commons organization, for dissemination of the paper by the Heritage For Future – Scientific Journal in the scope of copyrights referred to in the statement no. 2;
5. they undertake to reimburse the publisher for all costs and reimburse any damages that may result from third party claims if it turns out that any of the statements no. 1, 2, 3 are not true;
6. they also agree to make changes to the paper, resulting from the editorial work, with the reservation that the final shape of the basic text and additional materials requires the author's approval or the representative of the editorial board of the journal authorized by the author.

At the same time, the author/authors are aware that:

1. The Heritage For Future – Scientific Journal uses, according to the best practices of scientific journals, the double-blind review process of all publications;
2. authors of the publication should disclose the contribution of individuals to the publication (with affiliation and contribution, i.e., information, who is the author of the concepts, assumptions, methods, protocols etc. carried out when preparing the publication), the main responsibility for disclosing the data indicated bears the person, who submits the paper (in the Author Contributions section of the article);
3. The Heritage For Future - Scientific Journal is issued in electronic form, in English, the full text of the published article will be available at <http://www.heritageforfuture-journal.com> on the principle of free access in accordance with the standards of the Open Access.